THE TOWN CRIER

BY BONNIE WELLER

LAST WEEK, the Village was paid a visit by a couple of bandits. Unfortunately, Bartender Angus John Kinkade, was alone at the Stirrup Cup. While he was cleaning up, two men entered -- one of whom was armed with a .45. "Stop cleaning and cool it," they told Kinkade. One man watched the door, and the other took money from the cash-register. Then, he pointed to the small safe and ordered Kinkade to open it. (The location of the safe is not common knowledge, but the robber knew.) After gathering up $525 in cash, the bandit cut telephone wires and told Kinkade to go outside. The two robbers made off with the take -- and haven't been found, as yet.

IN A LIGHTER VEIN, Jack and Margaret Nielsen got away for a five-day vacation in the Sierras. Jack's our printer -- and it's not easy to take off between issues. Anyway, the Nielsens took their new 14-foot camping trailer up near Sierra City and camped at the Wild Plum Campgrounds. There, they hunted, fished and just relaxed. They returned on Monday night.

TULARCITOS SCHOOL'S teaching staff and students regret the loss of Catherine Westmoreland, 5th and 6th grade teacher. At last week's CUSD Board Meeting, her resignation was accepted. Though her personal reasons were not listed on the agenda, we understand that she resigned in order to care for her aging grandparents.

GEORGE GUSTAFSON, principal of Tularcitos School, flew back from Sacramento just in time to make the Board Meeting. As announced earlier, Mr. Gustafson is on Governor Reagan's new Commission of Educational Reform

Also at the Board Meeting last week, three in-lieu-of-transportation reimbursements were granted in our area. These requests were for students living in Hitchcock Canyon, San Carlos Ranch and Cachagua. If students have to walk more than two miles to the nearest bus stop, and a financial hardship can be proved, such requests are granted.

This brings to mind a famous case four or five years back, which cost the School District thousands of dollars. A family sued the District for not providing bus service to their out-of-the-way residence. For a time, a bus driver got up at 4:30 a.m. to drive a van-type truck over the rutted road. Quite a furor ensued -- and the District lost the case.....

JACK SWANSON, painter and sculptor whose work is exhibited at the White Oaks Gallery, was in our office the other day. And you know, he looks like a Texas cowboy himself. Very fitting, since his paintings are hung in the Cowboy Hall of Fame.

WHEN I MENTIONED to Harold Fly that I was going to lunch last Friday, he replied that he'd driven 200 miles to have lunch the day before. He and his wife, Helen, drove down to Solvang and ate lunch at Alisal Ranch outside town. "Too many tourists now," Harold said about the Danish community.

I've always wanted to tour Hearst Castle. Harold says he and his wife went down on the bus -- which is much simpler, since the tour takes care of all the details. Then we talked about what fun it is to go to San Francisco on the Del Monte Express for the day. (Of course, you spend most of the day coming and going.) Harold's "an old train man," having spent all his working years with the Missouri Pacific Railroad. His father before him was a train-man, having the agency in Indian Territory for Rock Island -- before it was Rock Island. His headquarters were in Shawnee, Oklahoma -- just 30 miles from my home-town. Small world.....

IF YOU'RE PRONE TO COMPLAIN about the mail service -- think of the people on Pitcairn Island. According to my friend,Norma Hall, the islanders haven't had any mail for five months -- and think that the world has forgotten them. Beginning this year, Pitcairn has no regular ships stopping there. The radio operator hails passing ships, asking them to stop for trading and supplies. As a matter of fact, there is only a nurse on the island -- and sick or injured inhabitants must be transported 4000 miles to Australia for medical aid. We're not really so bad off, do you think?

ALL DEMOCRATS will be interested in the Bazaar and Rummage Sale, sponsored by the Democratic Women's Club of Monterey County, at the American Legion Hall, Dolores and 8th, in Carmel. THE LOWER VALLEY cannot help but be improved when the Rio Road extension is built. Plan lines, which had earlier been approved by the county planning commission, last week were OK'd by the board of supervisors. When eventually built, the 84-ft. wide street will provide four lanes of traffic for a distance of 4,500 feet from the present end of Rio Road northeasterly to Carmel Valley Road, near the Community Church. It will make access to the entire Valley much easier, as it will divert traffic from shopping center roads and the congested intersection of Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road.

THE PLANNING COMMISSION took action on the following matters last week which affected Carmel Valley:

Approved a multiple-family development in the Lower Valley for Carmel Rancho, Inc., developers of a proposed 150-unit Riverwood apartment project. The 15-acre development lies between Rio Road and Carmel River on a subdivision of Lot 14, Hatton Partitition, Canada de la Segunda Rancho, and approval was given with a 3-year time limit.

Approved a use permit for Odello Brothers for the removal of natural materials fronting on and easterly of Highway 1 and south of Carmel River. Subject to conditions, the approval is for a 5 year period.

Approved a use permit for Jesse Lopez for the on-sale of beer and wine at a restaurant to be opened on the northwest corner of Carmel Valley Road and Pilot Road.

Design approvals for Robert Naify for a sign, and G.R. McWhorter for a dwelling addition.

TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

I am a new resident to Carmel Valley. I moved my family here by choice, not chance, after travelling 12,000 miles and eight months, locating at last in this beautiful valley and quaint village.

However, two weeks after moving here, we learned of the proposed shopping center and were sadly disappointed, knowing the set pattern progress generally follows. We silently wished the community felt as we did and that some individual, or group, would display interest, concern and insight enough to take steps to prevent Carmel Valley from becoming just another common community. Needless to say, the article to the Editor, by Dru Dunn, certainly gave us high hopes. We are not acquainted with the lady, but her little tea room, with its charming, original atmosphere, makes the tourist want to return again and again. Having previously owned my own gift-boutique shop in a tourist area, I am aware that it is this very ingredient that brings success or failure to a business or a community. The Keeping Room will continue bringing people back to Carmel Valley, regardless of what kind of shopping center is formed. What is most important, is that this business woman has the talent and foresight to see that the whole village, united, with a definite plan, could indeed be a very profitable and enjoyable focal spot. The possibilities are unlimited, not to even mention real estate values.

I did not move here to go into business again but if residents of this valley followed the guide lines of this lady, borrowing her ideas and suggestions, Carmel Valley would be insured of its own special spot on the map. And I, for one, would want to be in on the ground floor of this great venture.

I am just a homemaker and newcomer to the Valley, but I can dream exactly along the same lines as her articles state.

Rancho California, in southern California, started first with a dream, then with the financial backing of a huge investment company, who spent thousands of dollars seeking the correct location and putting the plan into effect. We all know the story of Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, Solvang and all the others -- all dreams. But we do not need an expensive firm to locate the correct location, we have it, and for free, right here. And we don't need an expensive firm to design the setup. There is enough local talent right here. What is needed is immediate concern for the future, immediate interest and immediate action.

I would urge all residents to take steps now to stop the common tragedy of progress, which can only lead to another mediocre, common shopping area. Carmel Valley should and can indeed be another Solvang, with its own, original chosen motif. Let us join together and put it on the map for all to see, enjoy and profit!

Hats off to Dru and her dream! But let's quit dreaming and take action, forming a committee, putting Dru at the top. There should be a meeting, an exchange of ideas, comments and criticism. I will gladly be the first to volunteer to aid and assist in any and every way to make Carmel Valley a definite focal spot, a place where one may step back into the colorful past, enjoying modern necessities of living in a truly picturesque, charming old California village, where past and present mingle harmoniously and the future sits secure.

CARMEL VALLEY HAS LARGE MUSHROOM INDUSTRY

BY BONNIE WELLER

Do you know that there are more than a thousand varieties of edible mushrooms? I didn't, until the other day, after I'd visited the Bavarian Mushroom Farms in Carmel Valley. According to the encyclopedia, there are 38,000 known species -- various shapes and colors. Those we see are usually beige to velvety brown -- but they also can be white to pale pink and lavender, and light yellow to bright orange and vermilion.

Mushroom is believed to be a derivation of the French word for moss (mousse).

The mushroom industry was started in Philadelphia in 1904. Chicago, St. Louis and New York are also centers for growing mushrooms. Fifty or more species are marketed in Europe, and France was long considered the leading world market.

In the United States, the meadow mushroom is grown for marketing. Although people refer to poisonous mushrooms as toadstools, this term is scientifically invalid. Botanists do not categorize the edible ones and the poisonous into two groups.

The growing of this plant has gained in popularity and pays well. There are two mushroom farms in this part of the state. One is the Bay View Mushroom Farm on Trafton Road in Watsonville, owned by Ronald Bossi. And the other one is the Bavarian Mushroom Farms, owned and operated by Joe Graham, located approximately two miles east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

Driving into the place, I parked and looked around for someone with a red beard -- that would be Joe Graham, so I'd been told. A fellow walked by, and I inquired of him where I might find Mr. Graham.

"He's on the tractor over there," the young man said, pointing to the end of the large pink barn.

So, I walked over to the shed and watched the man on the tractor. He was scooping up buckets of compost and running them over to large racks under the protection of the shed-roof.

Admittedly, the manure didn't smell very elegant in the otherwise invigorating air. Clouds of vapor hovered about the compost. Mr. Graham explained, above the noise of the tractor, that manure is hotter than air -- hence the steaming when it's uncovered.

About the only thought I'd given to mushrooms was cooking or eating them. They do contain protein, vitamins, iron, and copper. But few of us are concerned with their nutritional value. They just happen to add the right fillip to almost any meat or vegetable dish.

The large, black, flat mushroom -- fluted like a flower -- is a specialty of the Chinese. They serve mushrooms with bamboo shoots, or marinated, or dried. In Italy, Umbrian mushrooms grow under the trees in groves of beech and chestnut. And the Italians use mushrooms grilled with olive oil, garlic, and parsley -- marinated, on pizza, and in spaghetti sauce.

Scandinavians like sliced raw mushrooms. Theirs is the beige mushroom. Over 50 varieties of wild mushrooms grow in Finland. The Finns use them in soups, gravies and stews, fried or pickled, and tossed into salads. They even eat some types which are considered poisonous and they suffer no ill effects.

Now, the French use mushrooms in everything -- soup, stuffing, creamed, baked, stuffed caps, marinated, etc. In France, mushrooms grow in the shady woods outside Paris, as well as in fields, hothouses and cellars.

Mushrooms have been used as a food since early Roman times. In fact, both ancient Greeks and Romans considered them a great delicacy.....

Suddenly, the tractor became silent -- and Joe Graham climbed down. Cocking his head, he looked at me quizzically. "Well," he said, "what would you like to know?"

I couldn't really say, so he took me to see the sheds where mushrooms are grown. There are four sheds under the barn. The one we entered contained empty racks.

Gesturing toward the tier of racks, he said, "We empty the racks and heat them to 160 degrees - that's to sterilize them and kill any fungus growth." He pointed out a tiny spot of mold on the corner.

When asked what the compost contained, he replied, "There are 150 cubic yards of hay, which already has manure in it. To that, we add 600 pounds of gypsum, 600 pounds of safflower meal, 600 pounds of Nu-Sweet, 300 pounds of superphosphate, and 1500 pounds of alfalfa....."

He looked at me with wry amusement, while I tried to absorb these terms. Then he explained that the compost is turned on the outside racks four times in a 16-day period. After that, it is moved into the barn.

"When it is moved into the barn," he continued, "the compost is sterilized at 150 degrees for five hours. Then it is cooled to 135 degrees. This process burns all ammonia gasses out of it. The process takes 8 to 10 days. After that, it is cooled to 78 degrees and planted."

HOW MUSHROOMS ARE GROWN

Of course, I wanted to know how it was planted. Again, Joe gave me that half-smile through his beard.

"It is usually a grain of wheat which has been sterilized in a laboratory," he explained. "The grain in placed in a quart bottle and inoculated with a mushroom-spore. It's left to grow ten days in bottles. Half-way through this process, they shake it up to break the grains of wheat and mushroom-spore down into each grain. They end up with a little seed with mushroom spores on it. This is all done in a laboratory -- in a scientific, sterile manner."

He then suggested that we go to the next shed, to see mushrooms growing. The racks are stacked five-deep, I believe. And the mushrooms are thick in these trays.

The mushroom is the best-known fungi. Underneath its umbrella-shaped cap are the spore-bearing gills. Its stalk is stout, but the main part of the plant is underground -- the mycelium, through which the plant absorbs water and nutrients. Spawn is a mass of mycelium grown in manure.

Inside these sheds, it is dark and damp. Fungi do not have chlorophyll, as green plants do. Consequently, they do not need the sunlight. Nourishment must be found elsewhere, from decay and moisture. And table mushrooms are grown in this special mix of stable manure -- or compost.

Mr. Graham gets the spawn from the laboratory and plants it. "It takes 14 to 21 days for the spawn to run," he says. "Once it has a good hold, we case it with an inch layer of peat-moss and limestone." He smiled, with a dash of irony. "Then you wait 14 days and you have mushrooms."

Joe told me that the ideal temperature, while the spawn is running, is 74 degrees. After it is run, 60 degrees is ideal for growing. One house, he said, takes approximately three months and yields 4000 to 6000 pounds. And there are four houses, in the barn. That means 16,000 to 24,000 pounds every three months -- if everything goes right. A lot of mushrooms. And the Bavarian Mushroom Farms sells them both wholesale and retail.

Mr. Graham invitied me to go across the drive to his home. Inside, shafts of afternoon sunlight were a sharp contrast to the dim, damp mushroom sheds. Their living room is brightly bohemian.

Before taking over management of the Mushroom Farm, Mr. Graham was produce manager at Mid-Valley and Pacific Grove Safeway stores. "I was born in Pacific Grove," he said.

His wife, Marian, teaches at Carmelo School on the Beta Team. She received her bachelor's degree from Berkeley, and her master's from San Jose State. Joe spoke proudly of his wife. "She was at the Laboratory School at the University of Chicago," he told me. "And she was also director of the Head-Start program in Seaside."

They were married two years ago, Joe said Marian is from Berkeley. And her two children by a former marriage, live with them.

About that time, the door swung open, and Mrs. Graham came in with Laura, her 12-year-old daughter who goes to Middle School. Stephen, who is 14 and goes to Carmel High, joined us. He'd been in the front of the house, which is used as a marketplace for retailing mushrooms.

Joe excused himself - he had to return to work.

One word of caution about mushrooms -- it's safer to buy them than to pick them. According to authorities, the poison of the Amanita group has the same effect as a rattlesnake bite, separating the corpuscles from serum in the blood. In this group are the "death cup," "fly Amanita," and "destroying angel." Only experts know the differences between poisonous and edible mushrooms -- so don't tempt fate.

League of Women Voters to discuss electoral change

"The Electoral College -- What Choice for Change" will be discussed at three meetings by members of the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula in order to add their opinions to those of 157,000 members in the 50 states toward formation of a League position for action.

The public is invited to attend a meeting on Friday, Oct. 10, 9:30 a.m. in the West Parlor, Carmel Valley Manor.

The proposed Constitutional Amendment for direct popular election of the President, which recently passed the House of Representatives 339-70, will be discussed along with proportional, district, and other plans which retain some State-related step.

A League Study Committee, headed by Mrs. Allen C. Mitchell and Mrs. Donald Tibbals will present information on direct and indirect effects the various plans might have on the election process.

A free "Facts and Issues" on this subject, published August 1969 by the League of Women Voters of the United States, may be obtained by writing or calling the local League, 499 Van Buren Street, Monterey; telephone 372-8312.

Carmel Woman's Club

The 1969-70 season of the Carmel Woman's Club will open Oct. 6 with Carol Larsen as soloist. Critics state that Miss Larson captivates her audience with her thrilling voice, magnetic personality, striking beauty and versatile showmanship. She has given a command performance at the White House as well as singing in Carnegie Hall, the San Francisco Opera House and performing in many foreign countries and is internationally known as "The American Nightingale."

Mrs. Myron Hayward, president of the club, will preside at the season's opening meeting. Mrs. L. Norman Downer will introduce the artist.

Mrs. J. Randolph Kennedy will be Flower Chairman for the month of October. Pouring at the tea tables will be Miss Dorothy Peacock, Mrs. Allan Craig, Miss Ianthe Densmore and Mrs. Rhea Dively. Miss Gretchen Wahl will lead the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

'Free University' for Peninsula?

A meeting for all Peninsulans interested in organizing or participating in a "free university" has been called for Wednesday, Oct. 8 at 8 p.m. in Room 201 in the Social Sciences Building at Monterey Peninsula College.

Leading the discussion will be Leonard Epstein, a new English instructor at MPC who developed "The University for Man" at Kansas State University, where he was a candidate for a doctoral degree.

In organizing a "free university" on the Monterey Peninsula, Epstein says he visualizes a "drawing together" of all the diverse elements of the area: people from every community, old and young, military and businessmen, students and teachers - "anyone with curiosity and an interest in learning."

Epstein defines a "free university" as "a learning situation without a formal classroom, a loose structure which serves to bring together various talents for mutual benefit." There are no "traditional" teachers, he says. "Rather, there are 'conveners.'"

Interested persons who cannot attend the October 8 meeting and have questions or suggestions for possible groups, may write: "Free University, Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont, Monterey."

In a single year, some 250,000 Americans between the ages of 20 and 65 are cut down by heart and blood vessel diseases. The Central Mission Trails Heart Association says lives could be prolonged by regular medical checkups.

A "coronary care unit" is a special area set aside in a hospital for patients with symptoms of heart attack. The Central Mission Trails Heart Association says that these special units developed as a result of clinical research are saving lives daily.

STORK CORNER

One baby girl and one baby boy were born in our area last week. Kenneth James arrived at Community Hospital on September 21. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Waller of Carmel. And Catherine Marie arrived on the 23rd. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Avila, also of Carmel. Well, we've got a 50-50 ratio now. Wonder which will be in the lead next week.....

120 enjoy Del Mesa Carmel luau

THE LUAU was exotic and these guests, George Mack and Connie Clark, look it over with interest.

One of the most colorful social events of the season at Del Mesa Carmel was an Hawaiian Luau held last Friday evening at Club Mesa.

During the cocktail hour in the Fountain Courtyard, Polynesian drinks and fruit punches were served with gourmet hors d'oeuvres. Following cocktails the residents and their guests joined in the main social room for an elaborate luau dinner of authentic Island dishes prepared by Del Mesa Carmel's nationally-renowned chef, Werner Kalmus.

The room and tables were brilliantly decorated in tropical colors, accented by arrangements of begonias and orchid leis flown in from Honolulu for the occasion.

During dinner the guests were entertained by a group of Hawaiian musicians and dancers, Lei Lani and the Emuans of Waikiki.

Accolades for a most delightful event go to the committee consisting of the Slator Millers, Pat Pederson, the Don Shoops, the Ed Anersons, Lillian Senior, the Ted Lachelts, the Don Campbells, Sonia Bruyaux, the Harold Smiths, the Paul Olsons, Bobbie Meyers, Ed Bradley and Adrienne Engle.

Heading the committee was Jo Cleary, activities chairman at Del Mesa Carmel.

5 MEDICAL EMERGENCIES

The rescue crew of the C.V. Fire Department had five calls during the past week. The first, on Thursday, came in at 4:24 p.m. Shirley Koon, 33 Poppy, was given inhalation and treated for shock, before transporting her to Community Hospital.

On Friday at 1:04 a.m., the emergency crew was called to the west end of Scarlett Road where an auto accident had taken place. Christine Johnson, West Carmel Valley Road, suffered head injuries and was taken to Community.

At 12:00 midnight on the same day, another accident occurred on C.V. Road near Country Club Drive. Shepard Peterson, driver of the vehicle, did not require treatment. He lives at 37 Laurel Drive in the Valley.

On Saturday at 10:12 p.m., firemen responded to a call at Rancho del Monte Club. There they found Harry Gillette of Country Club Drive and treated him for shock. Gillette was then transported to Community Hospital.

Steve Hixson, Headquarter Company's Troop Command at Fort Ord, was brought to the Fire-House at 6:09 on Sunday. His fractured right arm was splintered, and he was taken to a local physician's office for further treatment.

Family Planning services available

Four clinics, offering family-planning services, have been opened for women in the county who cannot afford private medical care. Each patient attending a clinic will receive instruction about family planning, as well as an examination which includes a check for breast and cervical cancer. The physician in charge then talks to each woman about the particular method of contraception he feels is best suited for her.

Dr. Richard S. Fraser, Director of Public Health for Monterey County, says the whole idea of family planning is that people can have a baby when they want it.

Women who want a baby and have been unable to have one may also attend these Family Planning Clinics, where they will be advised about further medical care. These services are free.

A clinic at Monterey, Health Department, 1200 Aguajito Road, is held the first Tuesday of each month at 2:00 p.m.

For further information contact Dr. Richard S. Fraser, Box 2137, Salinas, or phone 424-7627.

After 3 years, the car that cost the least costs the most.

The official Used Car Guide is full of little surprises.

To show you what we mean, we've pitted one 1966 Volkswagen against 7 popular 1966 compacts.*

Back when they were spanking new, the popular compacts sold for an average price of $610 more than the Volkswagen sedan.

You'd be amazed at how unpopular they've become in 3 years.

The same compacts now sell off a used car lot for an average of $201 less than the Volkswagen.

Of course when you stop and think about it, this really isn't surprising at all.

How appealing is a car that looks 3 years old? Compared to one that never looks old?

Or a car that gets about 14 miles per gallon? Compared to one that gets about 26?

Or a car that takes lots of oil and water? Compared to one that takes little oil and no water?

The official Used Car Guide is full of foregone conclusions.

Sale Huge Success At Del Monte Center Store

One of the highlights of the year is the annual birthday sale now going on at Howard's of Monterey in the Del Monte Center. This fine store begins its 29th year serving the good taste of Monterey Peninsula women, and now has all of its very fashionable coats, suits, dresses, and sportswear on sale at a savings of 20%.

Comments galore are heard from happy customers as they select, at great savings, from the fabulous collections of the finest women's apparel.

One lady said, "Howard's has the best sales because they're one of the few stores that do not buy 'special priced merchandise.' Their merchandise is always taken from their regular stock of fine name brands." Another customer, a young teenager, said, "Howard's is my kind of store, and they do so much to make me feel relaxed. I certainly enjoy shopping in the pleasant atmosphere." The sale continues this week, with free $5.00 gift certificates being given away, too.

CARMEL VALLEY INN . . .

A LODGE WITH A CHARACTER ALL ITS OWN

At the entrance to -- or exit from, if you prefer -- our new Scenic Road is one of Carmel Valley's unique lodges. If you feel as I did until a month ago that the local inns are only for tourists, think again. As mentioned in the Town Crier, our family had occasion to stay at the Carmel Valley Inn between houses. And it was a delightful vacation, one-quarter mile from where we'd been living on Laureles Grade -- even with four kids, two dogs and a cat.

Where did the Harrisons put our menagerie? In "The Cottage," as they call it. Now, when I heard that we were to stay in a cottage, I visualized a snug little place with family members falling over each other. Not so. As it happens, the cottage is secluded from the other buildings and has a big living room, with a large bedroom on either side, three baths and a wall kitchen. Great! And each room has sliding-glass doors opening onto a private patio, with umbrellaed table for dining, chaise lounges for sunning, and a screen for privacy. We spent four days there.....

Well, that's not really the story I want to tell you. But you'll know how I found out so much about this garden hideaway. Of course, I did stay there one other time -- eight years ago, when I was living in Berkeley. But things have changed a bit since then.

For one thing, John and Graeme Harrison weren't the innkeepers at that time. In fact, they didn't take over until the first of January 1965. "We've been here four years and eight months," Mr. Harrison said, in his laconic manner.

Originally, they came from Vancouver, British Columbia, before they moved to Carmel in 1958. Actually, John was born in Berkeley and brought up in the Carmel area -- but everyone thinks he's Canadian. Graeme is Canadian, but was educated in the United States. "I'd never been to California, though, until we moved here," she said.

The second night we were at the Inn, Ted and I walked to the main building for cigarettes. There, in the massive lobby with its lofty beamed ceiling, we found the Harrisons watching color television. Graeme wore a long bright mumu, which suits her angular figure and accents her short gray hair. After inviting us to join them in the lounge area near the desk, Mrs. Harrison whisked away to answer the insistent switchboard.

Returning, she sat in one of the chintz-covered armchairs adjacent to the sofa we occupied. I like Graeme's forthrightness and relaxed repartee. She has an idea for a new brochure, using an ironic twist.....

"Each place claims to be the best -- the most beautiful," she said, with a sly twinkle in her brown eyes. "I was thinking about a cover picture of Ted with his eight-foot legs, leaping over the oleander -- wearing his Lil' Abner boots and cut-offs." (Ted, Jr., my stepson, has worked at the Inn for two summers, as has his sister, Kathy.))

With growing amusement about her brainstorm, she elaborated, saying that the flowers bloomed sometimes, etc. "We've had some wonderful letters from our guests," she added.

From his chair by the television, John regarded us with good humor and chatted with Ted. Mr. Harrison is thin and wiry, with curly gray hair and a white mustache. His style is understated, in contrast to Graeme's buoyancy.

From the kids, we'd already heard that the producer of HAIR had been a recent guest. The bulletin board in the lobby is filled with things of interest to both staff and guests. John nimbly left his chair to get a letter off the board from Stan Michaels, who is the Producer-Director of the controversial play. Here is what his letter says:

M. and Mrs. John Harrison August 19, 1969
Carmel Valley Inn

Carmel Valley, California

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Harrison:

Just a short note to let you know how much I appreciated your warm reception and fine accommodations. It is my desire sometime in the near future to return to your magic valley. Give my sincere thanks to your entire staff, as well as my love. The whole world will be a better place to live if your kind of people manage the hotel industry.

Peace and love,
SM:pl Stan Michaels
Producer-Director

"This is the one we like best," Graeme said, motioning us to follow her to the desk. On the wall above is this framed letter:

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison

They told us other interesting anecdotes about guests who'd visited the Inn. My impression is that the Harrisons have an extraordinary rapport in working together. They both enjoy the young people who work there. And they take a great interest in the kids. Graeme and John appear marvelously up-to-date in their liberal thought, probably from this close association with the younger generation.

They have three children of their own, and two little granddaughters. Graeme, their son, lives on the premises. And Nicola lives nearby, with her two daughters. (Wendy Robin is six, and Jeremy Kathleen is four.) The Harrison's other daughter, Jeremy, was married a few months ago at the Inn to Israel Tessler. They live in Vancouver.

In addition to their employees and family, the Harrisons also have a menagerie greater than ours. First in importance, I think, is Stash --a prissy black poodle, who announces new arrivals and patrols the lobby. Then there's Joey, a shiny black cat, who likes to lie in the sun on top of one of the long tables. And Jane, a gray alley-type cat, who has a passion for socks. Rather than let her cop off with the guests' socks, Graeme buys a package of cheap white work-socks from the supermarket and doles them out to Jane -- as the need arises. Most famous is Suite Thursday, a calico cat. The Harrisons found her at the first Jazz Festival twelve years ago. That Saturday afternoon, Duke Ellington was rehearsing "Suite Thursday," composed in honor of Steinbeck's novel, "Sweet Thursday." 'Since she (the cat) looked Steinbeckian," Graeme says, "we had no problem choosing a name." Thursday played Mr. Tanner in "Everybody Loves Opal" at the Studio Theatre.

The Inn offers recreational facilities for swimming, volleyball, croquet, badminton, and ping-pong -- as well as a putting green. As most everyone knows, the Inn is located on ten acres at the corner of Carmel Valley Road and Laureles Grade. Other than the cottage, they offer hotel accommodations in the main building, with private patio, and studio -- or lanai rooms. It is not a snobbish resort -- selective, perhaps. And the place has the distinctive flavor of our verdant Valley.

Leaving the lobby, we breathed deeply of the honeysuckle-scented evening. Alongside the main building, many flowers grow. Even though gardening is one of Graeme's favorite past-times, she says Joanna Austin is responsible for the beauty of the flowers. (Joanna is also the well-known potter, Roselle. Graeme too, is interested in pottery -- and knows just the place to install a kiln.) Above us, the 60-foot swimming pool shimmered in moonlight. The kids who work at the Inn love to have lunch around the pool. I'm sure the guests do, too. The Harrisons demand discipline of their young employees, but there is also an aura of permissiveness once chores are accomplished. And the kids love it.....

Next evening, Kathy and I treated ourselves to dinner in the Terrace Room, since the men in the family had scattered to the four winds. We stopped in the lobby to chat with Mrs. Harrison and Karen Gjording, the young brunette who works at the front desk. Graeme was dressed for the evening, marking time until John was free to join her and another couple to go out. I admired the lovely amethyst locket she wore, partly because it is my birthstone. The locket is an heirloom piece, and Graeme showed me that it was designed to hold a lock of hair.

Our dinner was excellent, and we enjoyed talking with Dolores Berta and Paul Salinger, who served us. Dolores is a pretty little blonde from the Berta Ranch up the Valley. And Paul is Pierre Salinger's charming nephew. Soft background music soothed us, after a hectic afternoon of back-to-school shopping.

The view from the dining room is superb. Low-lying juniper borders the lawn in front of the wide steps leading to the front lobby. Across the way, twisted Monterey cypress forms a wind-break for the putting green. Red, pink and white oleander lines the drive from Carmel Valley Road. In the distance, thin swirls of fog crept down over the wooded hills.

There is just enough formality at the Inn to make you feel that dining there is a festive affair. Not a white- tie soiree, like some places. And the cost is very reasonable. The decor is restful, with soft-orange tablecloths and gold napkins. (By the way, I discovered that a breakfast tray of coffee and sweet-rolls via room-service comes with a complimentary copy of the morning Chronicle.) May Winston is the Inn's cook. "Without her," Graeme says, "the machinery would quit."

Graeme was very busy the following morning, what with phone calls and guests in and out with various requests. Jim Taylor, accountant and Man Friday, helped answer the switchboard. (He was at Yosemite for 30 years, Graeme says, with the Curry Company. He's a veteran hiker, dancer, and train fancier.)

A couple wanted a ping-pong ball -- and Graeme went behind the desk. "If we don't have one, we'll have the chickens lay some," she said, with a smile.

The Harrison's son, Graeme, came through. He is tall, broad-shouldered, and wears a dark mustache. "John says he looks like a member of the cast of HAIR," Mrs. Harrison said.

Suddenly, we found a house and left the Inn. A week later, we dropped in late Friday night after seeing John Cartwright up on Chaparral. Over nightcaps in the cozy little bar, we chatted with John. Bill Jackson is usually bartender, as well as being head of the dining room and doing a little bit of everything. He's been at the Inn four years.

John scratched his head and sighed. "I have to stay up until midnight, anyway," he said, when we mentioned the lateness of the hour.

HERB JEPCO SHOW COMING TO INN

"What's coming is more important than what's been," John said, seating himself around the corner of the bar from us. "The Herb Jepco Show is coming.....It's a talk program, which originates at KSL in Salt Lake City and Tulsa. They do what they call a remote broadcast, and they'll be doing it from here. He comes on the air Friday nights at eleven o'clock. The program usually lasts all night, but it won't here. His fans are called Nite Caps, and this is a Nite Cap Rally on October 17, 18, and 19. This is the fourth time he's broadcast from this area -- the third time from the Inn."

Yawning and stretching, he continued, "Marian Fischer -- you know, her husband's a policeman in Carmel -- is very active in the club. She's a Nite Cap and head of the Monterey Chapter."

Going on in a half-asleep voice, John said, "They have a magazine, WICK, with a reading audience of about two million. There are 163,000 members in the club. And we expect about 300 here for the Rally. Some of them, the overflow, stay in other nearby lodges....." John has the rather detached air typical of creative persons. His diction is decidedly British.

"They chat about things in their families, usually," he added. "It's not a problem talk-program. Bob Fischer will be on the show here. And Sam Brandt will be the speaker.....-Friday night is registration and the dinner, followed by the show. Saturday morning, they'll have a bus tour around the Peninsula. The banquet is on Saturday night, in honor of Herb -- but no show after."

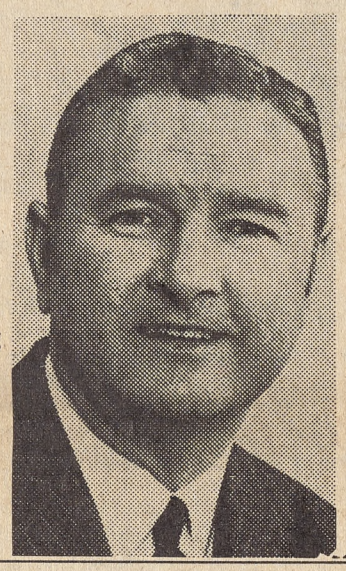
The conversation drifted to the theater. Both Harrisons enjoy being active in little theater. A close friend of John's is featured in a play about the life of Jimmy Walker. The show, JIMMY, opens next month on Broadway.

"I'd like to see one Broadway opening before I die, but --" John shrugged, and gave a wry smile. "Jack Warner is producing this play. He's 72 -- but a friend says he looks 60." Harrison went on to say that Peggy Hewitt, who was formerly at White Oaks, is also a part of the cast. "When we reopened in 1967, Jack Collins was master-of-ceremonies at our celebration."

On our way out, through the expansive lobby, we stopped to admire the Japanese woodcut over the fireplace -- which, by the way, is big enough to roast a pig in. Stash, the black poodle, wanted in the front door. Leaving, we let him in.

As we walked out into the honeyed fragrance of the night, I thought again how lucky we really are to live in our own Shangri-La. Carmel Valley, that is -- our hidden paradise.

Christian Science lecture in Carmel



Doubt is dissolved in a life of faith illumined by spiritual understanding, says James E. Pike, C.S., of Chicago. Mr. Pike, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak Thursday, Oct. 9 at 8:00 p.m. in Sunset Auditorium, Carmel. His lecture, titled "Life Without Doubt," is free and open to the community.

Carmel Valley Little League to hold important meeting Thursday

The Carmel Valley Little League will hold its next regular monthly meeting for adult volunteers on a new meeting night and in a new meeting place.

The date of the October meeting is Thursday, October 2, and business will get underway at 7:30 p.m. in the Multi-purpose Room of Tularcitos Elementary School. As with this meeting, the future monthly meetings will always be held on the first Thursday evening of each month at 7:30 p.m. at Tularcitos -- unless otherwise announced.

This Thursday's meeting will be very important to all parents and adults who have been connected with Little League in Carmel Valley this past season and will still have boys in the program in 1970; and equally important to those parents and other adults who realize they will have a boy of Little League age in the spring of 1970. (Age bracket is any boy age 8 to 12 who does not reach his 13th birthday before August 1 of the year they are playing ball.)

All adults in the mid and eastern area of Carmel Valley which is administered by the Carmel Valley Little League are invited and greatly encouraged to attend this October meeting. This includes every adult; man or woman, father or mother (or both), grandfather or grandmother (or other relative), past sponsor or prospective sponsor. In other words every adult who has any interest in furthering the ideals and goals of Little League Baseball, Inc. -- A national program of service to youth.

At this time the nominating committee, headed by George Groves of La Rancheria, will put into nomination those people they feel would be competent as board members and officers and also be willing to take on the various duties necessary to the smooth operation of such a program as Little League. Nominations will also be accepted from the floor to fill the positions on a possible new 24-member board of directors. The election of the board members and the League's officers will take place at the regular monthly meeting on the first Thursday in November. This is the month set aside for such an election in the group's by-laws. In this way, the new officers and managing-coaching volunteers are at the reins of the program by the first of the year to beg making plans and equipment purchases for the comir season which generally gets underway with try-outs in late March.

At a recent summer meeting, a Finance Committee, headed by Steve Thigpen of Tierra Grande, was formed to study the expenses and receipts of the League for the past 1969 season; report on the current financial status; evaluate the expenditures and methods of raising funds; and to then make recommendations to guide the group in the future.

In order to gain an actual body of interested, participating members in the League, a petition was passed at a past meeting encouraging the adults present to actually ask the Board of Directors to grant them membership in the group with it's accompanying rights of a voice in Carmel Valley Little League affairs and a vote in November's election.

If you will have any possible interest in Little League in 1970 - please consider the following statement and then attend this meeting and add your name to the list of adults who are anxious and willing to serve the boys of our wonderful community:

"We, the undersigned, who are all 21-years old or over and who are actively interested in furthering the objective of Little League Baseball of Carmel Valley, California, Inc. -- referred to as the 'Local League' -- do hereby ask that each of us be considered by the existing Board of Directors of the 'Local League' as applicants for membership to this organization. It is our desire to be elected as Regular Members of the corporation -- per the By-laws."

If you will be unable to attend the October 2 meeting, but wish to participate in Little League, please send your name, address, and phone number to Mrs. Ronald Angle, secretary; address: 26 Paso Cresta, Carmel Valley; phone: 659-4408. Or for additional information, please phone Goerge Palmer, president, at 659-2591.

BY MRS. B.C. FORRESTER

It took a Supreme Court Decision back in 1893 before the tomato was declared to be a vegetable. For many years the debate had raged. The "Love Apple" of ancient lore was what we call the tomato, when had it ceased to be a fruit? There was a tax on fruit in the U.S.A. and many were greatly relieved when it was legally pronounced a vegetable. Botanically it is a fruit, but why go through all that again. There are other botanical fruits known to us as vegetables, i.e. green beans, the pod of peas, the garden pepper, the okra pod. Custom has called them vegetables, and as vegetables they are sold. Another bit of curious thinking is to call the cucumber a vegetable and its near relation the muskmelon a fruit.

They are both of the genus "cucumis", both are grown by similar methods, both move through the same trade channels. The fruits of both are eaten raw. Yet till the end of time one will remain vegetable, the other fruit, because the housewife of today prepares them so. Cucumbers she treats with oil and vineger, salt and pepper, in salad. Muskmelon is served with additional sweetening in fruit salads and cocktails. There are also some weird mixtures for those with a very sweet tooth, like cutting off top, scooping out seeds and filling with strawberries, raspberries, brandy or rum. No one has yet dreamed up such recipes for cucumbers so I suppose the cucumber is a vegetable, the muskmelon is a fruit.

CUCUMBER SALAD

1 pkge lime jello, dissolved in ¾ cup boiling water
¼ cup lemon juice — 1 tsp onion juice
1 cup mayonnaise — 1 cup finely diced cucumber

Follow directions on Jello package. When completely dissolved add lemon juice, onion juice. Mix cucumber and mayonnaise and when Jello begins to thicken stir into Jello. Pour into mold or molds for individual servings. Chill.

CANTALOUPE

Cut in quarters, scoop out seeds, serve with salt, lemon wedges or lime wedges. Or sprinkle with sherry before serving.

Cut melon in quarters, remove seeds, serve with pineapple diced in center, of one quarter, strawberries in center of another, and raspberries may be used on another. Or serve four quarters with lime wedge -- garnish with mint.

Zucchini, sometimes called Italian Squash, is of course a squash and native to the Americas. IT PROBABLY ORIGINATED IN THE Andes or in northern Argentina. Indian migrations probably brought it to North America. But like the native tomato, zucchini had to go abroad to become famous. Squash of various types was known to Europe from colonial times. Germany had a variety in 1552 which was reintroduced to America in 1881 as "new", although originally it was of American origin.

I hope I have not given you my favorite zucchini, it is the one I like best, so please overlook repetition and prepare zucchini as the Italians do:

STUFFED ZUCCHINI

4 medium sized zucchini — 1/3 cup bread or cracker crumbs
½ cup grated dry Monterey Jack cheese — 3 eggs
1 small clove garlic, minced — 1 tbsp olive oil or melted butter
1 tsp marjoram — 1 tsp thyme
½ tsp rosemary — salt and pepper

Wash and trim zucchini; cook whole and do not peel. When just tender drain and cool for handling. Cut in half lengthwise, scoop out centers with teaspoon. Drain. Place bread crumbs and cheese in squash centers. Beat eggs and add along with garlic, olive oil and seasoning, well blended. Place zucchini halves in a flat, buttered, baking dish. And spoon in filling carefully. Cover bottom of baking dish with scant amount of water. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (350 deg.) for about 25 minutes or until filling is well set.

It's easy to donate blood

The above photos were not taken at a party as the convivial atmosphere would suggest but was an ordinary scene at the C.V. Firehouse on Red Cross Bloodmobile last May. Since many children want to know, "Just what do they do to you at the Blood Bank", these parents and others, share the experience of being a blood donor with their children. The youngsters are permitted to remain in the background as spectators. The next visit of the Bloodmobile will be Tuesday, Oct. 14 from 3:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. All persons wishing to donate blood are asked to note the date as the need is urgent.

By Mildred Hattan

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM FARR with sons, Wes, Will and Wayne returned from a combined business and vacation trip in the southern part of the state just before school started. Sara and Bill had taken thoroughbred stock from the Double "H" ranch to be sold at the famed horse sale at Del Mar which attracts horse fanciers from all over the world. Charles Russell, owner of the Double "H" is president of the California Horse Breeders Association.

The Valley family enjoyed sight seeing at Sea World in San Diego, crossed the border and visited Mexico, flew via sea plane to Santa Catalina Island and following their stay returned by boat, and took their three sons to Disneyland. They were guests in Los Angeles of Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Farr, stayed with Sara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ogburn in Ventura, and attended the wedding of Sara's nephew who was married in Covina.

Reluctant to end their holiday even after returning home, the Farrs did something that is so easy for residents to discuss but so difficult to find the time to do. They took their boys on the Grayline Historical tour of the Peninsula.

HOLLYWOOD'S JOHN WAYNE and his lovely wife were the latest celebrities to sign the guest register and be entertained at the Tennis Ranch by Barbara and John Gardiner. Referred to as The Duke of the Silver Screen, the favorite of the fans was recently afforded a rare tribute by fellow members of his profession who saluted his 40 years as an actor with a party. The large cake inscribed "Happy 40th Anniversary, John Wayne.....The Big Trail 1929-1969" was shared by such notables as Fred MacMurray, Rock Hudson, Ernest Borgnine and James Stewart.

A WARM VALLEY WELCOME to a new Navy family on Lilac Lane, Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Charles Clark who selected the Valley for their two-year residence during an assignment at the Naval Post Graduate School. It is the first time in 16 years of service that the midwestern couple have repeated a station. They were here in 1961 at the NPGS and resided in Pacific Grove. Jerry and Chick are the parents of Betsy 11, Donald 10, and Martha 6, all enrolled at Tularcitos. Before coming to the Valley they were stationed at Norfolk, Virginia, where Chick was editor of the Naval Aviation Safety magazine, "Approach".

THE MONTEREY MARLIN SWIM CLUB held its annual award ceremonies last week at Walter Colton Junior High School. Presentations were made by Coach Cary Tremewan following a coffee and dessert hour for swimmers and their guests. One of the 14 trophies returned to the Valley with Bill Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lou Gardner of the Blue Sky Lodge. Bill was the over-all winner in the 11-12 year old Boy's class. Most improved boy and girl winners were Chuck Kelly and Deedee Shuey. The club with several Valley participants in the membership continues to work out during the year and to compete individually in AAU events. The Marlins claimed the 1969 Tri-County Swim Championship for the seventh straight year at the meet held in Watsonville.

COL. (RET.) AND MRS. ADOLF FRIENDENTHAL recently entertained Elizabeth's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Germain of Brentwood. During their Valley stay they celebrated Mrs. Germain's birthday with a dinner party at the Naval Officer's Club at the Post Graduate School. Arriving to join the festivities were the Germain's son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Germain and their baby son, Von. The young couple have only recently returned from Africa where they met and married while serving with the Peace Corps.

THE TOUCH OF INDIAN SUMMER in the air set the theme for the September Carmel Valley Lionettes meeting when they met last week with Mrs. Leroy Dufur as their hostess at Los Laureles Lodge. Eileen centered her dinner tables with authentic Indian baskets filled with arrangements of marigolds, leaves and grasses flanked by tapers.

Mrs. Joseph Baudoin, guest speaker, discussed the rewarding experiences she and her husband have had with their foster Navajo family. They acquired the youngsters several years ago through Save the Children Federation and have contributed to their education and welfare, an association which has meant a great deal to both the Indian children and their Valley family.

A "birthday in absensia" was celebrated with the members enjoying the birthday cake prepared for Mrs. Nick Skalyo. Mrs. Tom Bordonaro was the lucky winner of the door prize.

Lloyd Todd was in attendance to organize the Lionettes who will assist the C.V. Lions with collections for the White Cane Days set for the 3rd and 4th of October. Proceeds from the drive are all utilized by the Lion's Club sight saving program.

Plans for a bake sale to be held November 22nd on the veranda of the Chatter Box were also discussed with Mrs. William Stowers appointed chairman.

Lions Club sponsor White Cane Days this week

The Carmel Valley Lions Club, organized for action by chairman, Lloyd Todd, will participate in the annual White Cane, Sight Conservation Days to be held October 3 and 4. From the Village businesses to their western boundary, the Safeway Store at Rio Road and Highway 1, members assisted by their wives, the Carmel Valley Lionettes, will be donating their time to the official fund raising project of the 80-club California-Nevada District of Lions International.

Locally the project has helped with the purchase of large-type textbooks and glasses for visually handicapped needy children and to assist with the financing of surgery and medical expenses for adults.

All funds collected during the drive are used for the sight program. The seven clubs on the Peninsula who are participating this year pay for any incidental expenses from their club's administrative funds.

The Lion motto, "We Serve" in the area of sight saving with proceeds from the White Cane Days finance a list that is lengthy and varied. They support the Presbyterian Hospital Eye Foundation; guide dog training schools; purchase of Braille writers for individuals or schools; summer vacations and all year recreation for sightless children; gifts of Braille books and magazines to the blind and to clubs of libraries for circulation; cartridge tape recorders and record players; support community eye banks and furnish adequate housing and care for blind and those with partial vision.

These are but a few of the channels into which the funds collected during the current drive will be utilized. Sub-Chairman assisting Todd are Richard McKenzie in charge of the Mid-Valley, Mal Tavares in charge of the Upper Valley, and Tom Bordonaro, in charge of the Lower Valley.

Skip Marquard to head realtors

M.A. "Skip" Marquard, Jr. of Porter-Marquard Realty, Carmel Valley, has been elected president of the Carmel Board of Realtors.

Elected to serve with Marquard are Mrs. George (Sallie) Conn, vice-president; Charles Strathmeyer, secretary-treasurer; Merrell Lewis, director, 1 year; Sherod Santos, director, 3 years; Eleanor Cetin, director, 2 years; Michael Antoncich, director, 1 year and Fran Mauer, salesman director, 1 year.

Members of the 1970 board will be installed at a dinner-dance at the Carmel Valley Country Club on October 23.

The Rhyming Philosopher

SPEAK

We hear a thousand voices day and night
Demanding more than common sense can give,
And claiming special privilege their right:
Denying others such prerogative.

No other land affords this freedom's choice
To flout the law and shout their creeds of hate,
While guaranteeing criminals a voice
For their defense and paid for by the State.

By printed word or rabble in the streets
We hear the ceaseless clamor of dissent,
But nothing satisfies and nothing meets
The menace of minorities intent.

But still our Constitution guarantees
A proper hearing for the least of these!

But where in this morass of turbulence
Is heard the voice of common decency?
Has then the vast majority no sense
Of counter protest? Cast off this apathy:

Speak out, speak up, and let your words ring true
Lest history mistakes their voice for you!

YMCA's Indian-lore program told to Tularcitos students

Children at Tularcitos School enjoyed a visit from an Indian chief.

Actually it was Doug Sprague, general secretary of the Monterey Peninsula Y.M.C.A.

His presentation in Carmel Valley last week is one of a great many being made at every school in the Peninsula area this school year.

The 'Y' has developed an interesting Indian theme which is used by the four stages of youth groups which the 'Y' sponsors.

Pictures on this page show 'Chief' Sprague talking mainly to the 1st, 2nd and 3rd graders at Tularcitos. This is the youngest group, and are called Y-Indian Guides. It fosters closer relationship between fathers and sons.

Gra-Y's include boys in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades. Then there are Junior Hi-Y groups and Hi-Y's for older boys.

In Carmel Valley there are now four Y-Indian Guide tribes, two Gra-Y clubs, one Junior Hi-Y and one Hi-Y club.

At the beginning of the school year, the YMCA program for youth includes flag football, trips to Disneyland, swimming, basketball and snow trips. The Y program seeks to reach as many boys as possible.

The Indian theme had an interesting beginning. It was in 1921 when, back in Kansas City, an Indian by the name of Joe Friday said to a YMCA secretary, "You know how to build big cities, but you don't know how to build a son; you leave it to your squaw."

Bob Hebert, who is active in the Y program in Carmel Valley, said that the Y-Indian Guide program is one of the fastest growing in the country.

For further information, he said that interested parents may call the YMCA, phone 373-4166.

ALFRED BACH...He's "Mr. Sew and Sew"

Bach makes sewing lots of fun

"A DRESS should be tight enough to show that the wearer is a woman, but loose enough to show she's a lady."

That's Alfred Bach's recommendation when it comes to home-fitting of self-made garments.

But what, you are probably wondering, does Mr. Bach know about all this anyway?

Good question.

Put it to Mr. Bach, and you're in for a lengthy lecture. Because Mr. Bach does know what he's talking about. In fact, his job is just talking about sewing.

Mr. Bach has proved such a good teacher, that all his four children -- two sons, two daughters -- are experts with the needle. His wife, former concert pianist Joan Bach lays no claim to any skill with a sewing machine.

"The piano's about the only gadget I can handle," she says.

A former industrial designer in the clothing manufacturing business, English-born, American-adopted Mr. Bach has spent the last few years travelling the world, lecturing on tricks of the sewing trade.....

"There's nothing effeminate about it," he says. "In fact, until a few years ago, most of the people connected with the rag trade were male. Some of the world's top people in the fashion business are men. And, of course, the couturiers are, almost without exception, male.

Mr. Bach will be giving lectures and demonstrations while he is at the Holiday Inn near Carmel -- and the people he'd most like to reach are needlework teachers, and women who feel the fun has gone out of sewing.....

"If teachers only taught practical, efficient methods in schools, instead of laborious old-fashioned, pins-and-tacking styles, then more students would enjoy sewing," he says.

And his big aim?

"To get more men to sew!"

Skydiving at Country Club Saturday

Skydiving and golf hardly go hand in hand on the sports field but they will be united Saturday at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club for the first time.

In a unique "shotgun start" of the fifth annual Quail Invitational, four Monterey Peninsula members of the United States Parachute Association will perform their sport for golfers and sightseers alike.

The jump will take place at 12:00 noon and target for the free fall action will be the area in front of the club house.

The public is invited at no charge to see this colorful spectacle, weather permitting.

Participating in the event will be Norman Heaton of Carmel Valley and executive director of the USPA; Earl Wagoner and Dick Gruber, both of Pacific Grove; and Russell Gunby of Del Rey Oaks.

The skydivers will be jumping at 7,500 feet and will free fall with colorful smoke bombs for about 30 seconds to 2,500 feet before releasing their parachutes, according to Heaton.

Recommended viewing areas include the entrance drive to the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and the vista turnout on the Carmel Valley Road near the main entrance to the club.

New classes at Village Art Center

Several new classes begin next week at the Arts and Crafts Center at Del Fino Place. Children's Arts and Crafts will be taught on Saturday mornings by PatCarayand Eleanore Welborn. The two teachers will instruct on alternate Saturdays, one in arts and the other in crafts. Prices for the class have been set within a reasonable range, so that more children may attend. There are also price breaks for children from the same family who enroll.

Also on Saturdays will be a class in beginning ceramics. This class will include slip-casting and glazing. The time scheduled is from 1:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon. Harriet Metcalf is the teacher.

On Tuesday night, from 7:30 to 9:30, knitting techniques will be taught by Dolores de la Cruz. There will be ten sessions. Mrs. de la Cruz offers a unique course, which includes selecting yarns, learning various types of stitching, repairing, alterations, and decorating techniques. Students make doll-size garments, in order to practice the different stitches.

Pat Caray will teach life drawing on Wednesday nights from 7:30 to 10:00 o'clock.

Call the Village Art Center, 659-2881, for further information regarding enrollment.

Rev. Pratt dies of heart attack

The administrator of Carmel Valley Manor died of a heart attack on Sunday.

The Rev. William D. Pratt, 59, was stricken fatally at Truckee while on a trip with his wife, Louise.

He headed the retirement community since it was organized in 1960 by the Northern California Congregational Churches.

Florist to entertain Chapel Guild

The next week's meeting of the Carmel Valley Chapel Guild will be in Fellowship Hall on Wednesday, Oct. 8 at 12:15 p.m.

Featuring a timely program for the fall season is a "Demonstration of Dry Flower Arrangement" given by an expert, Edward Silacci of the Salinas florists, Swenson & Silacci.

Silacci, AIFD (American Institute of Floral Designers) has been a floral designer for 10 years and has shared his talent with many organizations in Salinas and surrounding areas as well as national conventions of the Institute.

The Hostess Committee for the occasion will be Mrs. Wm. Meyer, chairman and Mrs. Ralph Updyke, co-chairman. Mrs. Joseph Clark and Mrs. John Power will serve on the committee.

Visitors are cordially welcomed to attend this outstanding program. Baby sitting service will be provided by the Chapel Guild. The Community Chapel is on Paso Hondo and Village Drive.

KIWANIANS HEAR ABOUT M.P.C.

At the last meeting of the Kiwanis Club, Ralph E. Atkinson spoke to the group about Monterey Peninsula College and some of its problems. Atkinson is president of the Board of Trustees for the college. President George Faul, he said, is responsible for the local campus not having the protests which have disrupted other schools. The college has an enrollment of over 5800 students --- 3000 in the day, and 2800 at night classes.

According to Atkinson, 90 percent of the students live in the district -- and most live at home. Approximately 80 percent of the graduates of local high schools attend MPC. Many work part or even full-time, while carrying a heavy schedule at school.

Quite a few of the students have definite problems with English composition. But some of them improve markedly and go on to four-year colleges, graduating with excellent records.

The MPC campus does reflect the problems of the day, and there is some difficulty in cooperating with minority students who want a change to be brought about immediately. Students living at home also cause problems, wishing to assert themselves as individuals and thereby causing conflicts at home. Reverberations extend back to the school.

A shortage of funds, both federal and state, makes it impossible to help all students who ask for and deserve aid. Those who have the greatest need are helped first.

In closing, Atkinson said that there are many requests for change which are reasonable and should be heard and corrected, if possible.

Thought for Today: "It is a great thing to do a little thing well."

Do you remember . . . . .

ONE YEAR AGO:

"Guests wandered in and out of shops and enjoyed champagne punch at the opening reception for Bernadelli Square, the new art center in Carmel Valley Village.....The Balcony Boutique with its colorful collection of clothing and jewelry accessories was a popular stopping off place on the evening tour....."

TWO YEARS AGO:

"George M. Clifford, Jr. was sworn in as a Second Lieutenant, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve by his father, Capt. George M. Clifford, U.S. Navy (ret.) of Rancho Rd., Carmel Valley. The father-son ceremony was performed recently at the Federal Building, San Francisco. Lt. Clifford is presently on active duty at the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va., and expects to be deployed overseas in January."

FOUR YEARS AGO:

"Mothers and fathers turned out en masse for the first Parents Club meeting at Tularcitos School. Over 200 persons were present to meet teachers and tour classrooms.

"President Rex Pryer introduced the other officers to open the meeting. Vice president is Betty Davis, recording secretary is Nancy Engleman, corresponding secretary is Sylvia Sweet and treasurer is Keith White....."

More Americans die each year from diseases of the heart and blood vessels than the total killed in all the wars of our country's history. The Central Mission Trails Heart Association says that early detection and treatment can help reduce the toll.

Theatre Guild 'Bid-a-long

The second annual "Bid-A-Long" sponsored by the White Oaks Theater Guild will be held on Friday from 7 until 10 p.m. at the Outrigger on Cannery Row. For a $5 donation to the guild guests will be entitled to champagne, hors d' oeuvres, and the opportunity to participate in the silent auction from an array of new items donated this year totaling $12,000.

Mrs. Leon Mink, president of the Guild, has appointed as chairman of the event, Mrs. Frank Crispo. Mrs. Robert Malloy was in charge of the handsome posters which were silk screened in Bernadelli Square. Mrs. Dale Glasco is in charge of publicity.

The event is patterned after the annual silent auction sponsored by the Los Angeles Chapter of the Junior League. Clip boards are placed beside each item giving guests an opportunity to sign their bid. Among the items which will tempt guests is the 2-year-old gelding registered quarter horse, a leather skirt, a Brooke Elgi photograph, aquarium, clothing, gourmet dinners, theater tickets, color TV, arts and antiques and a quanity of furniture.

Awards ceremony for Studio Theatre performers Oct. 7

The Monterey Peninsula is about to have its own "academy awards" ceremony.

To be held at the La Playa Hotel in Carmel on Tuesday evening, Oct. 7, the affair will recognize outstanding performances by actors and actresses at the Circle Theatre during the 1969-70 season, which closed August 31st.

Fifteen specially-designed statuettes will be presented for several categories, including best performances by an actor, an actress, supporting actors and actresses, and back-stage technicians.

In addition, a special award will be presented by Sidney Frohman, Peninsula theatrical producer, to honor the memory of Charles and Daniel Frohman, members of his family who were theatre "greats" of earlier days. The special award will be presented to an individual who has rendered devoted service to the cause of community theatre on the Peninsula during the past year.

A panel of judges will make the selections for the various awards. Each of the judges is experienced in theatre but none is connected with the Circle Theatre. Names of the members of the panel will not be announced, according to William Scholefield, general chairman for the event.

Members of the board of governors of Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula, the non-profit parent organization of the Golden Bough Players which present the productions at Circle Theatre, will be asked to announce the awards and hand the statuettes to the winners.

Hollywood tradition will be followed, according to Scholefield, even to the point of having a disinterested certified public accountant attest the selections, and the master of ceremonies may even use the phrase "the envelope, please!"

The awards ceremony will take place at 9:00 p.m. at the La Playa, with a no-host social hour at 6:30 and dinner at 7:30 preceding it. The evening's activities are open to the public. Reservations for the dinner at $7.50 per person may be made by calling the theatre office, 624-2669.

Firefighters to take part in 'Kick-off' program Sunday

No fires occurred in Carmel Valley this past week. That's a good way to get ready for Fire Prevention Week, which begins Sunday. The Monterey Peninsula Fire Prevention Officers Association will host the third annual "Kick-off" program at Cannery Row and Prescott Streets in Monterey, between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. Last year, the Carmel Valley Fire Department won the trophy -- and they're hoping to keep it this year.

Fire apparatus from all Peninsula fire departments will be exhibited. And demonstrations in fire-extinguishing will be held. There will be a fire-prevention booth. For the children, Smokey the Bear and Sparky the Fire Dog will be there, handing out fire helmets.

The Ladder Raise will start the program at 1:30 p.m. Following that, the Tug-O-War will take place between Pacific Grove and Carmel Valley -- and the Forestry Division versus Cannery Row. The Carmel Valley team will also participate in the Water Ball, scheduled for 2:50 p.m., after the Hose-Cart Demonstration and the Play-off for the Tug-O-War championship.

The Carmel Valley Fire Department will display its 1969 Rescue Unit AMC, which is vehicle No. 705.

Departments participating in the Kick-Off are the Carmel Valley Fire Department, California Division of Forestry, Cannery Row Volunteer Company Number 8, Carmel Fire Department, Carmel Highlands Fire Department, Fort Ord Fire Department, Marina Fire Department, Monterey Fire Department, Pacific Grove Fire Department, Salinas Fire Department, Seaside Fire Department, U.S. Naval Auxiliary Landing Field Fire Department.

Why not plan to attend the Kick-Off celebration on Sunday to give our outstanding firemen support in their games.
